

What do our values mean to us?

Across our curriculum, throughout many facets of our school day, we promote the mental strength of our children so that they approach any and all tasks with positivity and the right mindset – the mindset of 'yet'. We can't do it yet. Children at Mere Green understand that with perseverance, hard work and the ability to problem solve they will achieve their goals. Failure is accepted as part of the learning journey and so children are encouraged to take risks, believe in themselves and value their endeavours. When children face set backs, we develop their mental strength further by helping them address these conflicting emotions and self regulate and remind children that failure and forgetting is a process of learning.

Whether in the community, across the whole school, out on the playground or in class, we prioritise the value of contribute. We actively develop children's ability to collaborate with their peers, actively participating and communicating to achieve different purposes. Across school, we create and nurture safe environments, so that all children feel able to vocalise their ideas, and know that their contributions are valued and encouraged. Furthermore, with respect at the heart of what we do, children are taught to support and scaffold other learners in all aspects of Mere Green life. Learning is a team effort. Importantly, for our children to become active citizens for the future and contribute to an ever changing world, we encourage them to take pride in themselves, value their work, contributions and differences so that they can be a force of change as they embark on their next stage of education.

'Making a difference' lies at the heart of what we do at Mere Green. We want to 'Make a difference' to each and every child who walks through our doors and ensure, in turn, that our children will 'Make a difference' in the future. Children learn to value their interest and talents and set individual goals to ensure that they thrive in their learning, always seeking and wanting to do better. Our focus is to ensure learning opportunities are challenging and engaging, leaving our children curious and with a thirst for knowledge. All children must thrive. By creating safe and nurturing environments and developing strong relationships with our children and parents, we ensure that children can be the best that they can be.
